Kurzkommentar

Dr. Prickett's section (Group 1, Thursdays 14 - 16) is an in-person course with asynchronous Collaborative Online International Learning (COIL) components (with Beit Berl College, Israel). The course is primarily designed for Englisch Lehramt and B2 Anglistik/Amerikanistik students. However, students who are not Englisch Lehramt or B2 Anglistik/Amerikanistik students but who are eligible to earn Studiumplus credits can earn credit in the module "Ba-SK-Z-3 - Interkulturelle Kommunikation" by taking Dr. Prickett's section of this course.

In this course students should master oral communication of an informative, explanatory, and persuasive nature through presenting. Upon successful completion of this course, students should be able

- to understand and identify the principles of various presentation formats
- to structure and present academic and professional presentations effectively
- to develop a central argument and to support it with compelling subpoints
- to formulate coherent ideas and opinions and express them precisely and succinctly
- to use appropriate transitions and signposting language to help the audience navigate a presentation
- to integrate and correctly reference credible sources as evidence for their argumentation
- to strengthen their verbal delivery using appropriate pronunciation features (e.g., chunking, emphatic stress, etc.) and non-verbal language for advanced communicative competence
- to feel confident in posing and responding to questions during a presentation

Students are required to participate in weekly class discussions. Independent study is an integral component of the course. Students are strongly encouraged to attend the English Language Café. (Your instructor will provide you with information; see also the departmental website.)

Zielgruppe

Studierende der Anglistik/Amerikanistik und des LA Englisch

Are you an exchange student (Erasmus or other program)?

Due to the limited number of spots in our courses, our department and the University of Potsdam's International Office ("Participation in language courses at Zessko (Center for Languages and Key Competences)" <http://www.uni-potsdam.de/en/international/incoming/students/exchange/partner.html>) have developed the following guidelines for Erasmus students:

- Erasmus and other exchange students will not be automatically admitted to courses.
- Limited course spots (2 in "Hörverstehen und mündlicher Ausdruck I," 2 in "Übersetzen," and 1 in ""Hörverstehen und mündlicher Ausdruck II") will be reserved for Erasmus students whose major is English and/or American Studies.
- On a case by case basis, Erasmus students might be permitted to attend language courses at the Institut für Anglistik und Amerikanistik (Masters-level courses). Please contact the Institute directly.

Hinweis: Die Anzahl an LP (Leistungspunkten = 3) entspricht der Anzahl an ECTS-Punkten.

Note: The number of LP (Leistungspunkte = 3) equals the number of ECTS points.

Laut aktueller Modulbeschreibung ist die regelmäßige Anwesenheit obligatorisch. Die Anwesenheit in den sprachpraktischen Lehrveranstaltungen ist dringend erforderlich, weil andernfalls die Lernziele nicht erreicht werden können und eine Leistungserfassung im Sinne der Prüfungsordnung nicht möglich ist.

In accordance with University of Potsdam policy (§ 17 BAMA(LA)-O), the Department of English / Philology has defined the unauthorized use of AI tools, including ChatGPT, to complete graded assessments or exams in the Department's courses. It is unauthorized to use AI to formulate arguments or to summarize or contextualize source materials or to incorporate any part of an AI-generated response in a graded assignment or exam. Such unauthorized use is, by definition, a "Täuschung," and will be dealt with accordingly.

Lerninhalte

Lerninhalte:

This two-hour writing course centers on essay writing and the argumentative essay in particular. Upon completion of this course, students will be able

- to express themselves using nuanced language (improved accuracy and appropriacy of writing)
- to produce cohesive and coherent academic writing (improved complexity and effectiveness of writing)
- to identify and produce various types of academic texts
- to evaluate their own and others' texts (peer review)
- to assess and cite (MLA) appropriate sources properly

Students are strongly encouraged to consult with the Writing Assistance Program at Zessko (this is not a course tutorial).

Kurzkommentar

The course is primarily designed for Englisch Lehramt and B2 Anglistik/Amerikanistik students.

However, students who are not Englisch Lehramt or B2 Anglistik/Amerikanistik students but who are eligible to earn Studiumplus credits can earn credit in the module Ba-SK-Z-3 - Interkulturelle Kommunikation by taking Dr. Prickett's section of this course (Group 1, Mondays 10 - 12).

Kommentar

This is the first part of a two-course module which lays the groundwork for all further coursework in English linguistics. It aims to introduce students to the nature of language and the major domains of linguistic inquiry as well as its basic concepts, principles and tools in the following areas: Phonetics, Phonology, Morphology and Lexical Semantics. Students will

- excerpt the relevant knowledge from course-specific online material and/or literature on the basis of guiding questions,
- test their understanding by applying their newly acquired knowledge to exercise questions,
- clarify questions in class, and
- complete assignments

in order to later be able to use these skills in the advanced linguistics courses in their BA and MA studies.

There will be quizzes and a mock exam.

Please note that this course is offered by different instructors on different time slots every week.

Tutorials (which provide you with further practice) will be announced at the beginning of the semester. It is strongly recommended that students attend one of these tutorials regularly.

We strongly recommend attending this course in parallel with part II.

This course introduces students to the basic terms, analytical techniques and interpretive strategies commonly employed in Cultural Studies. Participants will learn to analyse concrete cultural phenomena in Anglophone countries with the help of some of the field's key concepts, including power, ideology, subjectivity, class, race, gender and nation. Through independent reading and classroom teaching, videos, and writing activities students will acquire the foundation for more advanced course work in Cultural Studies.

Kommentar

The course offers an introduction to the history of the English language from its origins to the present day. It explores the linguistic roots of English, the changes in pronunciation and loss of inflections, as well as the enormous expansion in vocabulary, which characterises the development of English. We will also consider the different varieties of English in evidence today and the similarities and dissimilarities between English and other Germanic languages. Among the difficulties encountered by ESL/EFL students are the English system of tenses as well as the discrepancy between spelling and pronunciation: these will all be addressed in this series of lectures.

Kommentar

This course provides an in-depth exploration of Nigerian English as a distinct variety within the context of World Englishes. It examines its historical development, linguistic features, and societal role, with a focus on its phonological, morphological, syntactic, lexical, and grammatical characteristics. Particular emphasis is placed on the influence of indigenous Nigerian languages and pidgin, highlighting the innovations and distinctive expressions that define Nigerian English.

By the end of the course, students will gain a comprehensive understanding of the development, structure, and significance of Nigerian English in both local and global contexts.

Kommentar

In this course, students will be acquainted with two central concepts of sociolinguistics and pragmatics: the concept of a "linguistic situation" and the concept of a "communicative situation." The former relates language(s) to broader social factors in a given unit and touches upon a number of fields of sociolinguistic investigation (e.g., bi- and multilingualism, contact languages, language policy and language planning, language and culture, language attitudes, language and ethnicity/ identity). In turn, the concept of a communicative situation applies to actual linguistic encounters. It is constituted by numerous interrelated variables, as, inter alia, the type of communicative situation, the social organizations, the location, and the participants.

Kommentar

Cultural Linguistics studies the relationship between the language – thought – culture triad and accesses a group's cultural cognition through the language they speak. This seminar is divided into two parts. In part 1, students will encounter the theoretical and analytical basics of the framework, along with plenty of opportunity for discussion and practice. In part 2, participants will be guided through their own (small scale) research projects, where they get the opportunity to showcase their acquired skillset with a topic of their choice. The research projects will be conducted in small groups and presented in the form of a scientific poster. The details regarding the presentation will be discussed in class when the final number of participants is determined. The seminar will end with a joint evaluation of the research projects and posters by the plenum. All groups will receive detailed feedback on their performance from the lecturer.

Group 2:

For research purposes, please bring your electronic devices (pads, notebooks) to class.

Kommentar

This course will consider the development of English in the period 1100-1500 - so-called Middle English. Representative texts will be used to illustrate the linguistic characteristics of the language in this period.

The course will also deal with the emergence of Middle English in the 12th century as well as the rise of a standard written language in the 14th and 15th centuries and the implications for the later development of the language.

It is recommended that course participants are attending the lecture series An Introduction to the History of English, or have attended in a previous semester.

Kommentar

This seminar is centered around core understandings of second language acquisition (SLA) and draws connections between current usage-based SLA research and practices for second language (L2) teaching. Grounded in the pragmatic and problem-oriented transdisciplinary framework of SLA, it aims to strengthen students' understandings of the multifaceted nature of L2 learning as well as their skills for designing transformative learning environments in their teaching contexts. The course combines an introduction to notions such as, language, agency, embodiment, semiotic resources for meaning-making, and investment, with practice-oriented activities.

Learning outcomes for this course

By the end of the course, you should be able to:

- explain fundamental assumptions, terms and concepts in SLA
- sketch basic relationships between such terms and concepts
- reframe and/or reconstruct their own personal experiences as L2 learners, L2 users, and developing teachers
- appropriately apply new learning to real-world situations

Kommentar

This course draws on students' prior knowledge of linguistics (pronunciation, lexis, grammar) to further understandings of additional language use through close analysis of naturalistic spoken and written data from classroom (and other) contexts where English is used as a foreign/additional (L2) language. It also offers an introduction to microanalytic research focused on the resources mobilized by L2 language users in a range of settings.

PREREQUISITES

Please be aware that you must have successfully completed the Grundmodul Linguistik to be able to attend this class. As this course draws heavily on the contents covered in the Grundmodul Linguistik, students are encouraged to review the contents of both GK1 and GK2 courses on a weekly basis.

LEARNING OUTCOME

After attending this class, participants are expected to be able to

- map linguistic features to linguistic sub-systems;
- describe relevant phenomena of L2 language use according to the linguistic aspects and metalanguage studied in class;
- compare samples of L2 language use;
- read transcriptions of naturalistic conversations;
- formulate questions connecting description of L2 use and teaching/the future professional field.

This course introduces participants to materials development through careful consideration of what constitutes teaching materials in the EFL classroom, how materials can be evaluated, adapted and created. It has a specific focus on productive and receptive competences as well as Task-Supported Language Learning (TSLL). Participants will gain practical experience in analyzing, evaluating, adapting and designing materials based on the competences expected to be fostered in the English classroom as part of the Rahmenlehrplan.

*** This module is exclusively offered in English language. Students of History can submit an essay and a module work (Hausarbeit) in German; nonetheless the classes, readings and discussions will all be in English ***

This BA seminar is taught in English and is open to students from History and English/American studies. We will look at the death penalty both in antiquity and in modernity (in the US) to understand it in its legal, historical, social, political, and discursive contexts and implications. Themes will include incarceration, theories of punishment, restorative justice, enslavement, execution and torture, martyrdom, and the representation of the death penalty in literature.

Looking at diverse texts from Literary and Cultural Studies-informed perspectives, we will study "Voices of Resistance" that emerged in different cultural contexts and different centuries.

Working with fictional and nonfictional (hi-)stories, students will have the chance to analyse elements of our power structures that in-/form the systems of patriarchy, colonialism, and capitalism. Among them are bodily experiences, everyday and institutional discourses, surveilling, confining, and eliminating practices.

This seminar offers an opportunity to explore how different forms of resistance, abuse, and exploitation can affect human relationships at the individual, institutional, and/or global level.

The representation of space tethers the imagination of a reader to the ways in which a writer represents the many aspects of a society that they are trying to depict. Hence, understanding the representation of space is one of the most significant ways of mapping the concerns of a novel. In this semester, we will be reading theories of space—its organisation, representation, poetics—alongside the way the novelist R.K.Narayan's most significant creation—the fictional village of Malgudi. In this class, we will be reading about the fictional village of Malgudi as the very real site where Narayan depicted the problems, politics, and transformations of the Indian nation-state. What can this depiction of space tell us about the politics? And more significantly, how can we think of this politics by thinking about the representations of space?

Each week, we will read a theoretical text which will deal with the depiction of space and then try to apply it to the reading of Malgudi as the space where the imaginary of a colonial and then an anti-colonial politics collides. For the classes, students would be expected to read both the theoretical texts and selected excerpts from the novels of R.K.Narayan every week, which would be made available on Moodle. Novels that will definitely be discussed: Sampath, the Printer of Malgudi and Waiting for the Mahatma .

Kommentar

In early modern Europe the devil was allowed enormous intellectual and physical powers. Both popular belief and learned theology told of an original fall from divine favour that nevertheless left Satan's angelic advantages more or less intact. He was therefore believed to be strong in relation to humans, on whom he worked demonic magic and seduced them into sin and damnation; but weak in relation to God, whose hierarchical world system he could only oppose but not actually overthrow.

In our seminar, we will take a look at some of the ways in which early modern English writers profiled the devil as an eminently dangerous and at the same time inherently oppositional and subordinate figure that in some instances appears surprisingly appealing and even likeable.

We will read and discuss dramatic, poetic and narrative texts including Christopher Marlowe's tragedy Doctor Faustus (first performed in 1589) and Ben Jonson's comedy The Devil Is an Ass (premiered 1616) as well as extensive extracts from John Milton's epic poem, Paradise Lost (1667) and Daniel Defoe's mock-treatise, A Political History of the Devil (1726).

In early modern Europe the devil was allowed enormous intellectual and physical powers. Both popular belief and learned theology told of an original fall from divine favour that nevertheless left Satan's angelic advantages more or less intact. He was therefore believed to be strong in relation to humans, on whom he worked demonic magic and seduced them into sin and damnation; but weak in relation to God, whose hierarchical world system he could only oppose but not actually overthrow.

In our seminar, we will take a look at some of the ways in which early modern English writers profiled the devil as an eminently dangerous and at the same time inherently oppositional and subordinate figure that in some instances appears surprisingly appealing and even likeable.

We will read and discuss dramatic, poetic and narrative texts including Christopher Marlowe's tragedy Doctor Faustus (first performed in 1589) and Ben Jonson's comedy The Devil Is an Ass (premiered 1616) as well as extensive extracts from John Milton's epic poem, Paradise Lost (1667) and Daniel Defoe's mock-treatise, A Political History of the Devil (1726).

Looking at diverse texts from Literary and Cultural Studies-informed perspectives, we will study "Voices of Resistance" that emerged in different cultural contexts and different centuries.

Working with fictional and nonfictional (hi-)stories, students will have the chance to analyse elements of our power structures that in-/form the systems of patriarchy, colonialism, and capitalism. Among them are bodily experiences, everyday and institutional discourses, surveilling, confining, and eliminating practices.

This seminar offers an opportunity to explore how different forms of resistance, abuse, and exploitation can affect human relationships at the individual, institutional, and/or global level.

Kommentar

The representation of space tethers the imagination of a reader to the ways in which a writer represents the many aspects of a society that they are trying to depict. Hence, understanding the representation of space is one of the most significant ways of mapping the concerns of a novel. In this semester, we will be reading theories of space—its organisation, representation, poetics—alongside the way the novelist R.K.Narayan's most significant creation—the fictional village of Malgudi. In this class, we will be reading about the fictional village of Malgudi as the very real site where Narayan depicted the problems, politics, and transformations of the Indian nation-state. What can this depiction of space tell us about the politics? And more significantly, how can we think of this politics by thinking about the representations of space?

Each week, we will read a theoretical text which will deal with the depiction of space and then try to apply it to the reading of Malgudi as the space where the imaginary of a colonial and then an anti-colonial politics collides. For the classes, students would be expected to read both the theoretical texts and selected excerpts from the novels of R.K.Narayan every week, which would be made available on Moodle. Novels that will definitely be discussed: Sampath, the Printer of Malgudi and Waiting for the Mahatma .

Glossar

Die folgenden Begriffserklärungen zu Prüfungsleistung, Prüfungsnebenleistung und Studienleistung gelten im Bezug auf Lehrveranstaltungen für alle Ordnungen, die seit dem WiSe 2013/14 in Kranft getreten sind.

Prüfungsleistung

Prüfungsleistungen sind benotete Leistungen innerhalb eines Moduls. Aus der Benotung der Prüfungsleistung(en) bildet sich die Modulnote, die in die Gesamtnote des Studiengangs eingeht. Handelt es sich um eine unbenotete Prüfungsleistung, so muss dieses ausdrücklich („unbenotet“) in der Modulbeschreibung der fachspezifischen Ordnung geregelt sein. Weitere Informationen, auch zu den Anmeldemöglichkeiten von Prüfungsleistungen, finden Sie unter anderem in der Kommentierung der BaMa-O

Prüfungsnebenleistung

Prüfungsnebenleistungen sind für den Abschluss eines Moduls relevante Leistungen, die – soweit sie vorgesehen sind – in der Modulbeschreibung der fachspezifischen Ordnung beschrieben sind. Prüfungsnebenleistungen sind immer unbenotet und werden lediglich mit "bestanden" bzw. "nicht bestanden" bewertet. Die Modulbeschreibung regelt, ob die Prüfungsnebenleistung eine Teilnahmevoraussetzung für eine Modulprüfung oder eine Abschlussvoraussetzung für ein ganzes Modul ist. Als Teilnahmevoraussetzung für eine Modulprüfung muss die Prüfungsnebenleistung erfolgreich vor der Anmeldung bzw. Teilnahme an der Modulprüfung erbracht worden sein. Auch für Erbringung einer Prüfungsnebenleistungen wird eine Anmeldung vorausgesetzt. Diese fällt immer mit der Belegung der Lehrveranstaltung zusammen, da Prüfungsnebenleistung im Rahmen einer Lehrveranstaltungen absolviert werden. Sieht also Ihre fachspezifische Ordnung Prüfungsnebenleistungen bei Lehrveranstaltungen vor, sind diese Lehrveranstaltungen zwingend zu belegen, um die Prüfungsnebenleistung absolvieren zu können.

Studienleistung

Als Studienleistung werden Leistungen bezeichnet, die weder Prüfungsleistungen noch Prüfungsnebenleistungen sind.
